CASE AGAINST J. M. WHITAKER A TENANT FARMER DISMISSED

JUDGE MILES ORDERED RELEASE
OF FARMER LIVING SOUTH
OF THE CITY

In the District Court the Case of J. B. Hunter Versus J. N. Arnold is On Trial Before Jury

J. M. Whitaker, a prominent farmer of the Bobertown section, was yesterday released by Justice E. R. Miles, court from a charge of disposing of mortgaged property the complaint having been filed against him last week by J. B. Hunter, from whom he rents a two hundred acre tract of farmland near Port Aransas.

Whitaker claimed that Whitaker had sold portions of the 1915 crop raised on the land and which had prior to their time been harvested in the City. The court, however, ruled that Whitaker introduced testimony through his own officials to show that they as lessees of the property had no intention in the sale of portions of the crop to Whitaker, this action being taken having been agreed upon by both parties to finance the harvest. Whitaker testified that the present litigation had been brought up by Whitaker's refusal to allow Hunter to interfere in the handling of the crop.

Judge Miles ruled Whitaker free of the charge, on the evidence submitted.

Hunter vs. Arnold.

The case of J. H. Hunter vs. J. N. Arnold is on trial in the District Court Judge W. H. Hopkins presiding. Plaintiff is in trespass to try title and defendant is in suit. The jury, composed of J. F. Parry, A. Pearce, Guy Dale, A. H. Cook, H. C. Fulton, B. M. Roberts, J. W. Crutcher, Joe Gladney, H. H. Hornig, D. Garrison and B. H. Treadwell. Fifty shares of stock as a day's work in the objective point for this committee.

Mr. Parry believes that by next Saturday night the campaign will be ready to close. The two hundred shares of stock held by the First State Bank will be sold to the public.

The Central Committee of which L. H. Miller is chairman, believes that $2500 will be ample to finance the organization for the first year. Insurably the Exposition Company will not be required to erect for the first exposition a new exhibition hall, as a large amount of the 1915 crop will be sold on next May 1.
